FROM THE NATIONAL CAPITAL.

[FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT]

WASHINGTON, Dec 24, 1872

Congress adjourned on Friday last for its holiday vacation, and I have, of course, no Congressional matter to write upon, at least have no direct news of Congressional action. The last act of the Senate was to pass, as I announced in my last, the deficiency bill, which included an important item, refunding to the city of Washington one million and two hundred thousand dollars, that has been expended for public improvements. It is said that 57 per cent of the city limits is used for streets and alleys, and that at least half the remainder is Government reservations and public grounds. It is claimed that the city was not laid out for purposes of trade or commerce, but was merely designed for a National Capital. It was laid out eighty years since, just at the time when France was convulsed with revolution and the city of Paris was at the mercy of an infuriated mob that turned revolution into anarchy and made the name of liberty a mockery and an excuse for indiscriminate carnage. A French officer who was then in this country, suggested the idea of adapting the city intended for the seat of the National Government to purposes of defence against domestic insurrection, and the suggestion was carried out. As a consequence we see wide streets, laid out with regularity and a system of easy defence, established by the existence of broad avenues, easily swept by cannon, that radiate from the Capital and the President's Mansion. Both of these points are situate on rising ground and surrounded by considerable open space. These two ideas—that the city should be planned as a place of elegant residence, to become beautiful as a National Capital, and the other that certain points should be located with reference to military defence—have been carried out greatly at the expense of the local interests of the city itself, for it has to be kept clean, paved, lighted, supplied with water, and so forth, all of which comes with increased expense to a city that has no commercial wealth to tax and no commercial future to depend on, while it has to be maintained in order at greatly increased expense on account of these wide streets and and avenues and these extensive public grounds

It is therefore claimed that the nation shall help to maintain the National Capital, and it is very generally conceded in Congress that the burden of city improvements shall be in fair proportion borne by the Government. The present city improvements, when completed, will cost six millions of dollars, and a person must compare Washington as it is now with what it was half a dozen years since to appreciate what is already done. Then rough cobble stones were the best street pavements, and the sidewalks were execrable. The work already done is immense, and we see these wide streets splendidly paved in different styles, the sidewalks are widened and improved, and as a natural result a handsome style of architecture is adopted in the new buildings being erected, and there is a prospect that within a few years a great deal of the old fashioned architecture will give place to new buildings on the principal streets. It is necessary for the permanent welfare of the national city that the Government shall lighten the burden of taxation, or else capital may be deterred from investment here. The great public works of street improvements and sewage now going on have a tendency to attract capital, and the readiness of the Government to meet a reasonable proportion of the expense will encourage that tendency.

A few words more as to the work of improvement. I have said that the streets were being admirably paved but that is not all. It has been always unhealthy in the vicinity of the Presidential mansion, owing to the swampy nature of the ground in front of it, and that was aggravated by the existence of the Georgetown and Washington Canal which used to make a bend around from the river, and was, I believe, originally intended to bring stone from the river to use in the building of the Capitol, near which it touched in its circling course. This canal was a stagnant ditch that bred fevers and has finally been dispensed with. Congress appropriated $80 000 for its filling up and the work has been in part completed with excellent sanitary results, and one other result, that a great deal of good ground has thus been redeemed, and it is said that it will be used for a carriage drive, and thrown open as an avenue.

There are extensive grounds kept in admirable order around the Capitol, and stretching toward the Potomac, for over a mile in length, are Government reservations that will, in time, be all very beautiful, and in great part are so already

Immediately adjoining the Capitol grounds are the Botanical Gardens, through which I take my nearest course to the Capitol itself. Along Pennsylvania Avenue, this square is an open grass plat with a fine fountain that is rather discouraged in its upward tendency with the present touch of winter. On the other side of the square—for the grounds occupy a whole block, and the blocks here are rather immense—are the green houses, the center one of which rises into a great glass dome within which tower gigantic exotics. There are three divisions to these green houses and I fancied that they were regulated upon different degrees of temperature. I have wandered through them a time or two, for every wanderer here can wander at will through the public domain and scarce a door is shut against him except the Halls of Congress, for it takes a certificate of membership to enter them. I cannot describe the nature of this collection of trees and plants for it is immense but you are regaled there with a commingling of odors quite overpowering, and the examination of the various flowers, shrubs, and trees—whose name is legion—and which represent the tribes of the earth that bear leaf, fruit and flower, will be no casual undertaking

Below the Botanical Gardens, on the next square, in another reservation, comprising the site of the old canal, and here, I believe, the work of the gardens is continued, but not yet in approved and perfect shape. The next square below sees a railroad depot established in the heart of the city and sandwiched in among the public gardens of the Nation. This was the vandal act of a late session of Congress, and I cannot forgive it, for it will probably stand for all time to show that Tom Scott and the Pennsylvania railroad have pretty much their own way with Congress and with the rest of the world

The beautiful grounds and buildings of the Smithsonian Institute come next. Then comes the Agricultural Department with its drives and walks and after that a large open space reaches past the Presidential grounds to the Potomac. This is being beautifully laid out and contains as a center piece, the vast unwieldy, unsightly and unfinished Washington monument—what there is of it. This was commenced on a plan of magnificence, and was to tower heavenward fully five hundred feet, higher than any other monument was ever piled. Nothing has been done for it or to it this many a year. It is too clearly outlined and too glaring to be respectable as a ruin. It is too sharply outlined to be picturesque and it merely stands as an unfinished piece of work that ill becomes American pride, and should be either made to go up or come down

I cannot take you any further in that direction without going into the river. We will drive down to the shore which, I am sorry to say, is not very romantic, and end with the discovery that all is quiet on the Potomac

By Overland Telegraph.

DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN

EASTERN DATES TO JANUARY 7.

WASHINGTON CITY.

Congressional

WASHINGTON, Jan 6 —Edmunds offered a resolution asking the Secretary of War to communicate the information in his possession as to expenditures in suppressing Indian hostilities in Washington Territory and Oregon. Agreed to

A resolution was adopted directing the Judiciary Committee to inquire into the propriety of repealing the National Bankrupt Law from and after Jan 1 1874 and providing for the immediate repeal of so much of said law as relates to involuntary bankruptcy

On motion of Stewart, the question pending since last session referring to the Goat Island bill, was taken up. Stewart said he would accept of Cole's amendment referring the bill to the Committee on Military Affairs and it was so referred

In the House a large number of bills were introduced and appropriately referred

After discussion the House by vote of 130 to 70 ordered open sessions of the Credit Mobilier Investigating Committee

Randall moved to suspend the rules for the adoption of his resolution relative to the Union Pacific

Platt suggested that the resolution be made to apply to the Central Pacific

Randall said after his resolution passed he would go for the Central Pacific

The rules were suspended, and the resolution adopted by a vote of 98 to 28

Wilson of Indiana offered a resolution for another select committee of five to inquire whether any stockholders of the Credit Mobilier held bonds in the Union Pacific, and whether they obtained them for a valuable consideration etc. Adopted

Sargent offered a resolution calling for information as to the suitability of the White House for a President's official and family residence. Adopted

Adjourned

The House Committee on Appropriations to-day finished the Naval Appropriation bill which appropriates $18,604 993, also the fortification bill appropriating $1,-909 000

The Military Academy bill was also agreed upon. It appropriates $351,000, and leaves the law on the apportionment of the cadets as at present, which allows no increase of cadets for the increase of representatives in Congress

CHICAGO, Jan 6 —The Evening Journal's Washington special says that Sumner sent a note to his colleague, Wilson asking him to announce that if a vote is taken in the Senate that he, Sumner, will be unable to be in his seat for some time. It is stated that Sumner has not slept in two weeks, except under the influence of hypodermic injections of morphine

Credit Mobilier!

WASHINGTON, Jan 7 —The cross examination of Oakes Ames before the Credit Mobilier Investigating Committee continues. No material points raised. In the direct testimony in reply to a question whether he ever gave any stock to any member of Congress without payment therefor, he answered emphatically in the negative. Witness had no intention of influencing those parties in Congress and did not want legislation at that time. Witness could not specify who applied for stock, there were so many of them. He thinks Patterson, Scofield, Bingham, Wilson and Colfax applied. They applied when they heard it would be a good investment. This terminated the cross examination

McComb, in his testimony, stated that Brooks, a member of Congress, received 50 shares of stock, but he thought it was given by direction of John B Alley, not Ames. He testified hearing Brooks press Alley to let him have 50 shares of the stock, and heard him say to Alley if he would do so he would take care of the Democratic side of the House. At this time Brooks was either a Government Director, or said he would have himself made Government Director of the Pacific Railroad

Supreme Court Decisions.

The Supreme Court decision rejecting Hutchings' Yosemite claims says he had no inchoate title debarring Congress from granting the valley absolutely to the State

In the case of Hall vs Dexter, the Supreme Court unanimously affirmed judgment in favor of Jno. Hall, ejecting the holder of certain lots in San Francisco on the ground that Hall was a lunatic when he made the conveyances

Senate Confirming.

The Senate yesterday confirmed a large number of promotions in the regular army made during the recess, also appointments of all cadets of the last graduating class of West Point to be Second Lieutenants.

EASTERN STATES.

The Louisiana Muddle

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 6 —Gen Emory has given instructions to hold troops in readiness to preserve peace

Attorney General Ogden of Louisiana, telegraphs Attorney General Williams as follows: The members of the Legislature returned as elected by the State Board, and recognized by Governor Warmoth before the assemblage of that body at Graham's Institute, are compelled to meet to-morrow under our customs, (?) in order to preserve their seats. Their assemblage will be peaceable, without arms and with no purpose of aggression; but simply to organize. The organization presided over by Pinchback has threatened violent interference, from which serious troubles may arise. That organization derives its authority from the attitude of federal executive and will be controlled by the President. We trust he will discountenance any interference with an assemblage which has order for its object, and is rendered necessary by the situation

NEW ORLEANS, Jan 6 —The city is quiet this morning, and fears of a conflict are subsiding. There is very little business doing. Some 3,000 persons are already assembled about the City Hall and Lafayette Square. The meeting there will undoubtedly be large this morning. A battalion of Infantry and a company of Cavalry rode up from the barracks to their temporary quarters, corner of Magazine and Julia streets.

The Conservative Legislature is caucusing. Sixty eight members of the House are present. It is understood that they will not meet at the Lyceum, but elsewhere.

LATER—The assemblage has increased to 5,000 or 6 000. A large United States flag has been displayed from the balcony of the Odd Fellow's Hall, Canal street, indicating that the Conservative Legislature will meet there. The crowd is rapidly assembling on that side of Lafayette Square. The assemblage is very quiet. The meeting has been called to order and the crowd is momentarily increasing. The stores are generally closed. Canal street looks deserted, and not a lady is to be seen on the great thoroughfare

CHICAGO, Jan 6 —The Journal's Washington special says as a result of of the Cabinet consultation yesterday in reference to affairs in Louisiana, the President has advised Gen Emory commanding the U S forces at New Orleans, that the Warmoth Legislature cannot be interfered with for peaceably assembling to-day, so long as they do not interfere with the existing government

NEW ORLEANS, Jan 6 —An immense crowd of citizens, estimated at 20 000, gathered in Lafayette Square, and other streets in the neighborhood of Odd Fellow's Hall, where at noon to-day, the Warmoth Legislature met. The crowd was remarkably quiet. No quorum was present in either House, and both adjourned to noon to-day. The Kellogg Legislature met as usual, but adjourned early

Father Burke at New Orleans.

Father Burke received a great ovation this morning. He will inaugurate in two weeks a mission of St. Patrick's Church

Sentence Passed upon Stokes.

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 —Stokes was in Oyer and Terminer this morning to receive his sentence. Tremaine, his counsel, made an address in relation to a bill of exceptions to the Judge's rulings, which he proposed to offer. The prisoner was then asked what he had to say why sentence of death should not be passed. Stokes thereupon said he had not violated the law intentionally, that the testimony upon which he was convicted was manufactured and perjured

Judge Boardman then in a very feeling address, in which he alluded to the prisoner's youth and social surroundings, sentenced the prisoner to be hanged on Friday the 28th of February next, being the shortest time that could be legally allowed a convicted man

Stokes' counsel were in consultation last evening. They were greatly surprised at the verdict and expressed their purpose of applying at once for a stay of proceedings and ultimately, if possible, securing a new trial.

Stokes after Sentence

NEW YORK, Jan 7 —Stokes when sent back to the Tombs yesterday was assigned to the murderer's cell. He stated to a reporter that money secured the verdict; that the boys Redmond and Hart were bribed, and that their testimony convicted him. He had expended all on the acquittal. He declares he was the victim of excited public sentiment, that the jury had their minds made up to convict him before the testimony was given; that at their selecting the jurors all stated they had formed an opinion. He was confident, however his counsel would obtain a stay of proceeding and also another trial

Tweed's Case Brought On

In Oyer and Terminer Court this morning, notwithstanding the urgent endeavors of his counsel for further delay of judgment, Judge Davis refused to entertain such motion, and ordered that the criminal trial of Tweed in which he is implicated with the City frauds be proceeded with. His counsel however proceeded to make a dilatory argument

NEW YORK, Jan 6 —Tweed's case was adjourned over to-day owing to the indisposition of some of his lawyers

Accident to Ex-Mayor Hall

Ex Mayor Hall slipped and broke his ankle bone late last night. He will be confined to the house for a month

A Storm

NEW YORK, Jan 6 —Yesterday morning shortly after 10 o'clock a rain storm began which soon turned to sleet and continued until everything became fringed with icicles. No such spectacle has been witnessed in years before. Trees encased in ice, locomotion on sidewalks became almost impossible and throughout the day the streets looked deserted. About 12½ o'clock telegraphic communication with points outside the city was stopped by ice on the wires which broke them down. The police telegraph was destroyed throughout the city, wires and poles falling in the streets and on sidewalks, while New York became isolated so far as communication with the outside world is concerned. The Western Union Telegraph Company constructed temporary facilities at Jersey City whither dispatches were taken by messengers. The company did its best to serve the public, but the elements were too powerful. The fire department gave orders for ringing of additional bells for fires. Brooklyn suffered similar to New York, the falling wires in many places put a stop to street cars. Washington County Farmers' Club.

The Washington County Farmers' Club met at the regular time. Mr. James Smith was called to the Chair in the absence of the President, Mr. Wilson.

The question for discussion was called for, and read, to-wit "What is the most practical method for enriching the farm land of this county?"

Mr. Davis, a gentleman of 73 years, arose and said he had been a farmer most of his life, but really had taken more interest in trying to farm right for the past few years than ever, had been studying the ways and means for enriching his land, and was much interested in a work on composting, sent out by the Department at Washington, which should be in the hands of every farmer. He says we must catch the liquid manure and use on the heap. The raw manure must be so treated as to destroy foul seed. We must depend upon the compost heap. He also urged draining, and said we must do it cheaply or we can't do it at all. He recommends plowing the land so as to bring the middle furrow to the same place for several seasons when it will be a small matter to dig a ditch one foot wide and one foot deep; then in the bottom of this, dig a drain four inches wide and six inches deep; on this drain lay a fir pole eight inches in diameter, and fill it up with the plow. Now plow so as to level the land again.

Mr. Humphrey says we must use all the manure we can save on the farm, but if we depend upon it our farms will grow poorer; the produce of the farm will not keep it up, even if it is all fed out to stock. He illustrated by saying that a farm of 60 acres might be tolerable well manured once every twelve years by using the manure on five acres yearly. So, says he, that is not practicable. We can sow clover or peas, and plow them under, and enrich our land, but who will pay our bills, while we are doing this. Neither is this practicable, for the farmer must live on the produce of his farm. The thing to be done is thorough plowing in the fall, preparing the ground for the fertilizing influence of the rains. Shallow plowing, if well subsoiled, is better than to plow so deep.

Mr. Cave asks which would be the most profitable, to buy manure at 25 cents per load or lime at $2 per barrel.

Mr. Humphrey doubts whether either would be profitable.

Mr. Griffin asks how we can keep the compost heap from destroying itself by overheating

Mr. Smith says that in Scotland it is put into a tight pit, and no such trouble is experienced.

Mr. Warren thinks that only the fern land can be pastured in winter without injury. Thinks our land needs underdraining worse than manuring, and to buy lime for manure is to throw money away, has seen the gopher ditcher used and thinks that four horses can draw it deep enough to answer every purpose; freezing in this country would not injure it if put two feet deep.

Mr. Griffin read an essay prepared for the occasion, upon the routine of crop process for enriching land which was very instructive.

On motion, the principal question for discussion for the next meeting is, "What is the most practical method for draining the land of this county?"

On motion, adjourned until the last Saturday in January, it being the next regular meeting.

L. PATTERSON,
Secretary W. C. F. C.

The following is from a Washington paper of the 24th ult.

During the recess the Senate Judiciary Committee to whom was reffered the bill introduced by Senator Morton, concerning the appointment of a commission to distribute the Geneva award, will examine the insurance losses question. By some it is argued that the $15,000,000 will remain in our Treasury a long time after it comes into our possession on account of the disputed points in regard to the the rightful claims of insurance companies. On the original questions of redress, to which insurance companies and those insured who have paid for their losses, are entitled the Supreme Court has already decided that these matters of decision by unlawful seizure in case of belligerency are the same, subject to subrogation upon principles of law that matters of private injury are. This point was established in a case which arose under our treaty of 1819 with Spain.

Our Quarrel with Venezuela

The bill proposed by the House Committee on Foreign Affairs, in relation to the delay of Venezuela to pay the demands due citizens of the United States, authorizes the President to take such steps as he may deem necessary to enforce the payment of these demands by the Venezuela government, even to the extent of declaring war. The bill has not been formally reported. The Committee endeavored to get the report in on the 13th of December, the day before the recess, but were crowded out by the regular order

These claims ought to have been settled long ago. Our Government has already exhibited great liberality and patience in its dealings with Venezuela concerning them. In 1867 a treaty was ratified by the two nations, creating a tribunal of arbitration to which those claims were referred. Many of them were very old claims at that time, and frequent attempts had been previously made to secure their settlement but without effect. The tribunal of arbitration, which sat at Carracas, closed its labors as early as August, 1868. Out of nearly five millions of claims presented by citizens of the United States, there was allowed by this tribunal the sum of $1,253,310 30. The arbitrators, having examined and reported upon the claims separately, instead of awarding a sum in gross, as was done in the case of the Geneva Arbitration, there was no necessity for any further action on the part of our Government in reference to the distribution of the money awarded, and certificates were therefore issued by the government of Venezuela directly to the respective claimants, who had been successful in establishing their claims.

These certificates were payable to bearer in certain specified installments upon presentatation at the Treasury of that Republic. When the first installment fell due Venezuela failed to meet it. At first the excuse for this failure was simply the want of funds. But another pretext was soon found which, by making another investigation necessary, would, it was supposed, postpone the payment for an indefinite period. This pretext was, that one Murray who, it was said, acted in the various capacities of United States Minister, Secretary of Legation and attorney for the claimants, had acted illegally and to the prejudice of Venezuela. That government therefore demanded that the award be set aside and that a new tribunal of arbitration be formed to rehear the evidence on these claims. Instead, however, of consenting at once to open up the whole controversy afresh, Congress, after a reasonable amount of diplomatic correspondence had failed to induce Venezuela to pay the awards in accordance with the terms of the treaty of 1867, directed the Committee on Foreign Relations to investigate the matter of Murray's conduct and report whether there was any sufficient ground for the demand of Venezuela for a resubmission of the claims. The Committee having given the matter a thorough investigation, report that there was no irregularity that could affect the rights of the Venezuelan government, before the tribunal of arbitration, and recommend that such steps be taken as will put an end to the present course of Venezuela. From the tone of the President's message on the subject, he will have no disposition to permit much further procrastination.

It is not likely, however, that our Government will be compelled to resort to extreme measures for the enforcement of these demands. It may be safely predicted that the government of Venezuela, feeble of itself, and too clearly in the wrong to expect support or sympathy from other nations, will stop short of provoking actual hostilities. It will only be necessary for President Grant to say the demands must be paid without any further delay, in order that the controversy may at once be ended.

We are very sorry the author of "The Registered Letter" did not send us his or her name. The rule that excludes from publication all matter not accompanied by the name of the author, is inflexible. We can make no exceptions under any circumstances. If a writer desires his name withheld from publication it is withheld, but we must know the name of every person who writes for the OREGONIAN.

While we are speaking of contributions to the paper, permit us to make another suggestion to contributors: do not write poetry if you can help it. That song alone is worth hearing which you "sing because you cannot choose but sing." We are in constant receipt of very clever original verses, some of them giving expression to quite pleasant conceits, but cultivated persons very readily distinguish between these and poetry. We are always thankful for original poems that possess merit. An article so scarce cannot but be prized. But good Saxon prose—letters, racy, newsy reading—is most desirable, and five persons will read it to one who will read verses.

The Boston Advertiser's Washington correspondent says General Butler's bill for the distribution of the Alabama award is widely different from those previously introduced, and is understood to represent interests opposed to the insurance companies. The whole business of the examination and judgment of claims for losses by rebel cruisers is referred to the United States courts, and no provision is made for commissioners or other tribunals. Precedence of claims is fixed in the following order: First, those of actual owners and masters of vessels uninsured; second, losses above all insurance received, and, third, classes actually paid by insurance companies. Suits may be brought in the district courts of the ports in which the vessels were registered or of that from which they sailed. Rules of procedure in cases arising under the bill are prescribed with care in detail, and are designed to form a complete system of rules applicable to the proper distribution of the award.

The New York Tribune has not fully recovered its equanimity. No longer outspoken in its opposition to the administration, it is still plain to be seen that it is ready to find fault whenever that can be done as easily as to approve. It is almost impossible to read a column of its editorial without falling upon sentences that are strongly flavored with a feeling of personal dislike toward prominent Republicans, especially those immediately connected with the Government

The late special term of the Circuit Court for Yamhill county, yielded, from fines and trial fees. $765 85.

A Shameless Usurper

We have no fear of the disapproval of our fellow citizens of Portland when we say that the conduct of one of the directors of our free schools is an outrage and a disgrace. We refer to Dr. J. S. Giltner. From the time of his election, which was procured by the use of a mob of roughs, and which at the time was regarded by the respectable part of the community as a humiliation on account of his antecedent character, he has made himself even more unenviably conspicuous than he was before. But the culminating achievement of his genius for wantonly intermeddling in the affairs of the schools took place last Monday when he undertook to ignore the certificates of a number of the teachers legally given to them by the proper officers, and required them to dismiss their classes and appear forthwith and submit to a re examination. Some of the teachers, to avoid further trouble, submitted to the outrageous demand, notwithstanding they held unexpired first-class certificates. But the Superintendent was not present, not caring we suppose, to be a party to the unwarranted and tyrannical proceeding. The emergency must be met, however, and this man Giltner, who is as ignorant of scholastic sciences as a porpoise, after sending a peremptory summons to the Superintendent, had not the decency to wait for that officer's response, but announced his intention to proceed with the examination himself. Just think of Giltner conducting an examination of a school teacher! The performance however terminated more decently by the Superintendent appearing and conducting the examination of those who desired to be examined. On the next morning—yesterday—Giltner, enraged at what he supposed to be, on the part of the teachers who did not appear, an exhibition of their contempt for him and his pompous assumptions, went to the Harrison street school and conducted himself in a manner so shockingly coarse and violent as to make all his previous indecencies appear the height of propriety by comparison. We drop this fellow for this issue, but we shall bestow further attention upon him to-morrow

Thurlow Weed, whose opinions on political subjects are always entitled to respectful consideration, while he opposes the rules for civil service appointments, framed by the Commission, as impracticable, doesnot, as is generally understood, oppose the Civil Service Reform which those rules were intended to carry into effect. In his famous letter upon that subject he says:

> The rule laid down by Mr Jefferson, regulating "civil service appointments," was after all, the golden one. The question he asked was, "Is he honest, capable and faithful to the Constitution?" Neither time nor experience furnishes any better test than this. No system or policy which practically and arbitrarily excludes nine tenths or four fifths of American electors from fair, open and equal competition, for the civil service of the Government can be put into practice. The best and truest service that the people can render the country is, first, to elect capable and enlightened rulers, and then require such rulers to fill the "civil service" with honest men. It is not constitutions or laws or systems or policies or programmes on which the safety of the Government and the welfare of the people depend. The general security and individual prosperity rests upon the men chosen and selected to obey and execute the Constitution and laws.

It will thus be seen that the position of Mr. Weed has been misunderstood by those journals that have set him down as an opponent of the Civil Service Reform. "Is he honest, capable and faithful to the Constitution?" This is exactly the test sought to be applied by means of the present rules. In detail the plan may, and doubtless does, need revision. Time and practical application to the affairs of the country will best show in what respects it is defective, and will suggest the necessary changes. All perfect systems in social government are brought about by processes of development. But there must be beginnings.

The Brooklyn Tabernacle, the Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage's church, which was destroyed by fire on the 22d of December—the same day with our conflagration—was one of the most magnificent houses of worship in the country. The organ—the celebrated jubilee organ—was the largest in America. It appears from a description of the building, given in the New York Tribune, that the construction of the flues was such as might well account for the fire. They were square and constructed of thin zinc; inside there were sheet iron pipes to carry smoke and gas. The zinc flues were encased in wood, to which the corrugated iron finish was fastened. It was only necessary for a joint of the sheetiron pipe to give way or fall over against the zink flue in order that the building might be involved in a conflagration by heating the furnace.

The last Congress passed an act providing for a colossal statue in bronze of Admiral Farragut, to be placed in Farragut square, Washington, and appropriated $20,000 therefor. There is now going on a lively contest among artists for the design. The time originally allowed for the presentation of models, which expired on the first of January, 1873, was extended thirty days, so the rivalry waxes more and more spirited. Dr. Horatio Stone has a full sized model finished. Miss Vinnie Ream, the sculptor of Lincoln, is in the field with a finished model, which is said to be of very superior design. New York, Boston, and Florence, Italy, are also represented in the competition. The choice is to be made by the Committee of Public Buildings and Grounds of the two Houses of Congress

The Arkansas Republican, published at Little Rock, takes for its text the resolution of inquiry introduced into the Senate by Mr. Rice, of that State, and preaches a sermon on the sinuosities of the Senator's political course, which he will hardly forget for some time. We can call to mind but few instances in which a Senator of the United States has received a more thorough excoriation. And all for no better reason than that the Senator has manifested a patriotic ambition to Warmothize the State of Arkansas.

We find the following among recent press dispatches from Washington city

> In reporting adversely upon the bill to allow women to vote and hold offices in the Territories, Senator Edmunds, the Chairman of the Judiciary Committee remarked, that whatever might be the sentiments of the members of the committee on the abstract question involved in the bill, this was a matter which should be determined by the people and not by Congress. This conclusion on the part of the committee was arrived at not because of a belief that Congress has not power to grant women the right to vote and hold office in the Territories, but on the ground that the women themselves, or the people of the Territories, have not generally applied to Congress for the privilege. The same committee, however, reported, about a year ago, that the Constitution does not, as is claimed by some persons, accord to women the elective franchise. Notwithstanding the adverse report of the committee on the bill above mentioned, Senator Pomeroy, who is always looking out for a chance to do something in the interest of temperance and of woman suffrage, had the bill placed upon the calendar in the hope that at least a pretty thorough discussion of the subject can be forced before the expiration of this Congress.

The Statesman of Tuesday says: At last, a few of the Governor's staff officers are about to go for Modoc scalps. This morning, when the train thunders away from the depot southward, it will carry Gen. John F. Miller, of the Governor's staff, Col. C. B. Bellinger, also of the Governor's staff, and Col. Wm. Thompson, likewise of the Governor's staff. These chieftains are going to the Modoc country, ostensibly to carry 40 government needle-guns, to be placed in the hands of the settlers for self defense.

Capt. Kelly writes as follows from the Modoc country under date of Dec. 27th: "The Indians are strongly fortified in caves and rocks on the south end of Tule Lake. Capt. Perry, of the United States forces, and myself have reconnoitered the Indian camp, under orders of General Wheaton. The Indians have about 100 warriors, well armed, and think they can whip the world where they are. Gen. Wheaton thinks it is not prudent to attack them without first shelling them out, in fact, it is doubtful whether we could whip them with our present force. The regulars and the volunteers number about 250 in all."

The traveling correspondent of the Pacific Rural Press, tells this about Oregon: "The road through Oregon leads through the beautiful valley of the Wallamet, the garden and granary of Oregon. Every now and then you see a beautiful farm and pleasant house, which suggests what the country may become. School houses are plenty and their seats well filled. People came here to make homes, and we see large and happy families. The people have too much land and are very anxious to have more settlers. Two of their citizens are on their way East as Commissioners of Emigration. We may expect to hear of their lectures and writings. Mr. Applegate, the chief speaker, once held an audience four hours listening to an extempore speech. It was in a political canvass, and his opponents secured the hall, and meant to prevent his having any meeting, but he organized one outside and drew their audience all out to hear him; so people may depend upon it that the advantages of Oregon will be fully stated to our Eastern friends."

Ah Wing, a Chinaman, escaped from the Territorial Penitentiary in Idaho and "winged" his way to parts unknown.

An old man in Idaho, on whose head nearly fifty winters had "snowed their snows" recently led to the hymenial altar a blushing maiden of twenty-three summers.

The Union Pacific Railroad Company are building a narrow-guage railroad from a point east of Cheyenne to a point west of Denver, so as to compete for the business now drawn to the broad-gauge connecting these two towns.

At the late communication of the Grand Lodge of A. F. & A. M., of Idaho Territory the following Grand Officers were elected. M. W. G. M.—John Kennely, Idaho City; R. W. D. G. M.—A. Rossi, Boise city; R. W. G. S. W.—E. A. Stevenson, Pioneer; R. W. G. J. W.—L. P. Mickelson, Silver City; W. G. Treasurer—J. W. Griffin, Boise City; W. G. Sec'y—L. F. Cartee, Boise City

The Boise, Idaho, Statesman says: "We understand that the Commissioner of the land office at Washington has ordered a large tract of country, in the northern portion of Nez Perce county, withdrawn from market, with the view of giving it the Coeur d'Alene Indians as a Reservation, and that this order has been sent on to the Lewiston Land Office, by the Surveyor-General, L. F. Cartee. The Indian Department has been sadly misinformed in the matter, or it would never set apart this tract of country for these Indians."

The people of Walla Walla seem to be taking decided steps to have the Walla Walla and Grand Ronde Railroad constructed. A preliminary survey has been made, and sufficient money has been subscribed to grade and tie the road to Umatilla river. The road will leave the lower end of Walla Walla City and run in a south-westerly direction, crossing the Walla Walla river, at some point above Ingalls' crossing, following the same direction to Dry creek at John's ranch. From thence it will follow up that creek about six miles, crossing the divide between Dry and Pine creeks, and passing about one mile below Weston, Oregon. Still pursuing a south-westerly course, it will reach Wild Horse creek at Mitchell's Station. Following down Wild Horse about four miles, it leaves that creek and makes a detour to the left, and runs southerly over the divide between the latter creek and the Umatilla river, striking said river about two miles below the Thomas & Ruck's bridge. The highest grade on the whole route is but 66 feet per mile, which can probably be reduced to 60 feet. The grading will not be difficult at any point, as there are no heavy cuts or rocks of any consequence to be met with on the line

The Power of Corporations

The subjoined paragraph, which, though it appears like an overdrawn picture, has a solid back ground of truth, is from the San Francisco Chronicle:

> The next great division of parties in American politics will be opposition and war with monopolies. The organized power of these vast corporations is obtaining a controlling influence over the Government that is irresistible. The absolute indifference and insensibility to individual rights and private interests by those monopolists is as marked as was ever the insolence of authority in feudal times. Never did Saxon slave wear the badge of a more galling servitude than does the American people to day to the great corporations. Gradually they have debauched the morals of the community, until they have so demoralized public virtue, that it really seems as though there was no end and no limitation to corporate exactions and demands

A moral miss recently stepped into an Olympia drug store and asked for a bottle of "jock of clubs." She wanted jockey club perfumery.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, JANUARY 8, 187

CITY.

FASHIONABLE FURS.—The following are the [illegible] styles noted in furs

The large capes and collars of past seasons have gone out of favor, and now only the boa and muff are worn

One of the newest styles of winter costumes is dark blue or green cloth, trimmed with bands of Alaska fur

Seal skin turbans are worn by everyone—that is, they are equally adapted to the beau and the woman as well as to the child

One of the prettiest fur garments is a sacque of [illegible], trimmed with a fine [illegible]. Another style of trimming a black seal skin [illegible] is with brown seal the latter being the natural color of the fur

Among the novelties in furs are the beautiful [illegible] skins—a long, rich fur of a very dark color The muff is a little larger than those of sable and the boa is quite long, these furs being especially designed for the drive

Among the fashionable furs the different species of fox are the most in vogue Some of them are inexpensive, while others of them again are even higher in value than the Russian sable [illegible] favorite fur for trimming the garments of [illegible]

Another very elegant costume trimmed with [illegible] of black velvet The skirt is plain and trimmed with two bands of silver fox The over [illegible] is a deep basque Over this is worn a beautiful Dolman of black velvet, trimmed with the [illegible] fox. The wide sleeves of this graceful garment when trimmed with fur, are exceedingly [illegible]. The muff and boa of the same fur also accompany this dress

The black fox, which is a long, glossy fur of [illegible] blackness, is the richest of the fox skins. In favor are the furs of the silver grey [illegible] and the white fox The latter is quite inexpensive, and no more charming furs could be [illegible] for a young lady The silver fox is much used for trimming velvet sacques, and a set of the furs is, of course, worn with the same garment.

REPORTED ARREST OF SHULTS.—On Monday a telegram was received in this city by the Chief of Police notifying him that Shults alias Barge[man] had been arrested by Deputy Sheriff White [illegible] in Washington Territory, and requesting Mr Lappeus to telegraph to Mr Watkinds superintendent of the Penitentiary at Salem and that a requisition be obtained from the Governor commanding the delivery of the prisoner to the authorities of Oregon. On the receipt of the telegram Mr Lappeus dispatched the con[illegible] to Mr Watkinds who secured the necessary [illegible] and came to this city last evening on his way to Seattle, intending to leave for that place by boat this afternoon provided he can obtain more satisfactory information in regard to the person arrested. Mr. W., informs us that since Bargeman's escape, about one year ago, no less than four requisitions from our Governor have been asked for by parties who claimed to have the convict cornered or caught, but in each case the "party" of the name of Bargeman got out of the way or turned out to be some one else. This report may prove to be one of the same kind, as it is scarcely probable that the outlaw would return to the Sound country where he is well known, and which he had to break through prison walls in order to leave. However, if he is at Seattle and will remain till Watkinds gets over there, we are quite sure he will have to go back to the Salem [illegible]yard. Further news will likely come from [illegible] to day either confirming the first report or [illegible] it unfounded

EXCURSION TO VANCOUVER.—On last Monday evening the officers and members of the several lodges of Odd Fellows in this city and East Portland chartered the steamer Vancouver and proceeded to Vancouver to pay a fraternal visit to the lodge in that place, and assist in installing the officers. Being received and well cared for by [illegible] Lodge, No. 3, at their hall D. G M [illegible] and D D G M Kelly, assisted by [illegible] of the different Lodges in attendance, proceeded to install the officers for the ensuing term after which the the Brotherhood at Vancouver entertained their visitors with a showing that they know about getting up a supper, [illegible] small sized, but very pleasant hop, and proved themselves thoroughly posted in both parties. A splendid table was spread at the "Pa[illegible]" and the trip of the toe was kept up until [illegible] o'clock A. M., when the Portland delegation [illegible] home, leaving their entertainers well [illegible], and themselves satisfied that they owed [illegible] one in the way of good solid enjoyment. The officers installed were R. W. Down [illegible] N G, G T McConnell, V. G, B. M. [illegible], R S, M Wintler, Treasurer, G W [illegible], W, John P. Smith, O. G, S D [illegible] I G, M. R Hathaway, R S N. G, W [illegible], L S N G, Joseph Paddleford, R [illegible] Harry Enskin, L S V G, John Bar[illegible] R S V G; Henry Hellman, R S S, G W [illegible], S. D. Maxon, and James Orr, Trustees. [illegible] officers Vancouver Lodge, No 3, will [illegible] a lively Lodge.

PARTING SCENE.—The scene at the departure of [illegible] for San Francisco is a peculiarity of [illegible] of the Occident, and illustrates the [illegible] character of our genus homine [illegible] in the first place the business like adieux of the liberal Yankee and his countrymen of the [illegible]. With them there is no emotional follies [illegible] used to moving, and it has become a [illegible] nature In contrast with these are the [illegible] of Ierne, who almost gulp each other [illegible] in their enthusiastic, bubbling affection, [illegible] has no knowledge of the forms of etiquette, [illegible] therefore is indifferent to its criticism This [illegible] of farewell is contrasted by the numerous [illegible] who bid the member of the Teutonic family good bye, in many expressions and few no[illegible] The conversation is generally lively and [illegible], but no emotion is manifested The Italian [illegible] parting, show gravity, the Frenchman, [illegible] and good fellowship, but the most noisy, [illegible] adieux are between the moon eyed [illegible] of the Sun. They shout at each other in ringing tones which pierce the meatus most [illegible]; they seem to have no other form of salutation but this, unless we except allowing each man to carry his own bag even if he had a dozen packages The [illegible] is great, and the various nationalities, [illegible] and characteristic enough to show their [illegible].

[illegible] INSANITY.—An old man named Stott [illegible] arrested yesterday evening on the charge of [illegible] common drunkard. He was also con[illegible] to be in a mental state narrowly bordering on insanity, superinduced by the constant excessive use of intoxicating stimulants His lodgings on First street, opposite the [illegible]tal Hotel, where he has been stopping for [illegible]. These quarters were visited yesterday by the officer making the arrest and found in a most shocking and disgusting state of [illegible] the odor arising from the apartment, being unbearable The inmate was found to be lying in this wretched abode in a condition of poverty and want His clothes were so [illegible] as to fail to completely shield from view [illegible]. For some nights past this miserable man has been in the habit of wandering the streets bare footed, and begging for [illegible] from one saloon to another He was arrested yesterday and lodged in jail His case [illegible] examined into this morning

SAILORS' ROW.—Three sailors were arrested yesterday morning, who belong to the bark Rival, on complaint of the Captain. These sailors, on [illegible] night, began to imbibe freely in liquor [illegible] very boisterous, and were ejected from [illegible] saloons on account of creating a disturbance. Late in the night, they went on board the [illegible] and literally "cleaned things out" They [illegible] of the forecastle and refused to obey the orders of the Captain A basket of [illegible] was found in the forward part of the [illegible] and a good portion of its contents emptied [illegible] sparkling fluid added materially to the boisterousness of the sailors, who created such an [illegible] that the Captain sent for an officer as soon as [illegible] appeared. The jolly salts were captured after a short but spirited engagement, and [illegible] in jail. When Court was called this morning [illegible] lingering traces of the midnight orgies [illegible] discernible on the countenances of those [illegible], that their cases were postponed [illegible] this morning for a hearing

REPAIRING PAVEMENT.—The Street Railroad Company are having the Nicolson pavement along the line of track on First street repaired When the rails were first laid, the space of an inch or more separated, in places the outside of the rails and the edges of the wooden blocks The constant abrasions made by the passing [illegible] have caused a wide gap to be formed, to the [illegible] of teams and the great inconvenience [illegible]. The repairs being made are a measure [illegible] as much as of public convenience [illegible] wooden blocks are removed and new and [illegible] substituted The blocks are driven in [illegible] so that no space intervenes between the pavement and the outer rails.

AT HIS OLD TRICKS.—Our city was for some time last spring and summer the home of one William P O Reilly, of whose history much is written in the records of the Police Court, and who was also the recipient of the hospitalities of Multnomah county which were given him in the basement of the Court House Well William P has left us and now we learn that he turns up at Olympia where he has been engaged in indulging some of his obstreperous propensities He got into a row with a man at that place and seizing a double barreled shotgun went for the [illegible] [illegible] his characteristic style After William had chased him [illegible] the city limits of Olympia the fellow being almost frightened to death it was found that the gun was entirely empty but this did not appear to affect the case favorably for O Reilly with the officers of the law and he now languisheth in the Olympia jail "all for nothing" as he thinks because the gun was not loaded

REFUSING TO ASSIST.—A man named Welch was arrested yesterday for refusing to assist the police officers when called upon to do so Captains Wiley and Brannan proceeded to Flander's yesterday at an early hour to arrest three drunken and disorderly sailors on board the bark Rival These jolly sons of Neptune concluded to resist and being brawny active fellows they tackled the officers and were in a fair way of getting away with them when Welch was called upon to assist He declined to lend a hand in the matter Capt Fairfoul, who works on the dock came to the officers' succor and after a lively struggle the three men vanquished the belligerents and marched them to jail The officers were not hurt in the tussle, but Fairfoul narrowly escaped being knocked over-board After the sailors were secured, an officer arrested Welch He gave bonds for his appearance this morning, when the case will be investigated

AN ACCIDENT AVOIDED.—Yesterday morning, as the construction train on the O & C railroad, with mails and baggage was approaching a point about a mile north of Wilbur station, the section foreman signaled the engineer to stop The trouble ahead proved to be the washing away of a culvert which caused the road bed to become disturbed, so much so that a train passing over it would certainly meet with an accident The mails, baggage, and employes on the train (there were no passengers, it so happened, aboard,) were transferred to a handcar which was worked to some distance northward, the locomotive whistle meantime having been blown to attract the attention of the engineer at Oakland That person heard the signal and started southward with the train, meeting the hand car about midway between Wilbur and Oakland where all hands got aboard the train and proceeded without further delay to this city

SKIFF LOST.—As the Stark street ferryboat was crossing to the eastern shore yesterday afternoon, the large skiff which has long been used by the proprietor in ferrying persons over after night, and also since the cable was broken, was lost The skiff was attached to the ferry by a small cord When the boat reached the middle of the river, the skiff, caught by drift wood or the force of the current, began to dip The rate at which the ferry was moving caused the small boat to rapidly fill When it filled and sank, the cord was snapped by the strain, and the skiff set afloat, there not being sufficient weight about the craft to sink Two persons started in hot pursuit, as the boat was a valuable one The race was a short one, for as the half sunken craft passed the bark Barracouta, lying at Flanders' wharf, several sailors succeeded in capturing it and hauling it alongside the vessel.

AJAX SAILED.—The steamer Ajax sailed last evening from this port for San Francisco, with the following passengers J C Ainsworth, S G Reed, H Bigelow, V Hubbard, Otto Esch and wife, J S Kast, S J McCormick, Mrs J E Owens, Mrs Mary Morrill, Henry Lance, Mrs Mary Wilson, Mr Baily, W Harris, M Apple, R Fulford and wife, Mrs Hepburn, W L Higgins, Mr Curson, H H Hobbs, J J McBride, James Collins, G A Muge, Capt O McGuire, Mrs M Kolton and 2 children, E Fallon, M Laughlin, H Heckert and wife, M F LaGrange, W H Wilson, John Harlow, G W Foreman, C H Redmond, Geo Galbreth, D E Buchanan, J Klosterman, Alex Stevenson, Katie Isaacs, Wells, Fargo & Co 's messenger, and fifty in the steerage.

GERMAN AID SOCIETY.—The German Aid Society of Portland held their annual meeting last evening, at which the following officers were elected for the ensuing year President, Henry Saxer, Vice President, Frank Dekum, Secretary, P Wagner; Treasurer, Charles Burchardt, Trustees, Messrs Meussdorffer, Donnerberg and Ewald It was determined by the Society to hold a bazaar, lottery and ball on the 3d, 4th, 5th, and 6th of February. The object is to create a fund which will be applied toward the erection of a German hospital in the city.

THE DEBRIS.—Several locksmiths were engaged yesterday in taking out from the heaps of brick and debris, the safes which were left to their fiery fate at the late unpleasant experience with that "fiend," over which reporters often wax so eloquence The iron safe belonging to W Currier & Co, was taken out and the door opened The safe was found to be badly damaged, and the contents completely charred. The safe at Woodward's, at the corner, was found to have withstood the ordeal with no better success

LARCENY BY BAILEE.—A man who resides in East Portland, was arrested yesterday on the complaint of another person, who alleges that he loaned the defendant some time ago a valuable pistol Since then, he has made a formal demand frequently for the weapon, but has been baffled by falsehoods and evasions, until there is good reason to believe that a larceny was intended. The defendant deposited $50 bond, and the case will be tried this morning in the Police Court.

A SMALL BOAT.—In consequence of the breakage of the cable at the foot of Stark street, the ferry boat was unable to effect a landing on this side of the stream, and no large boat crossed. Passengers were conveyed to and from a skiff. Teams and wagons were compelled to take the lower ferry, or remain on each side of the river. Travel has been inconvenienced to no small extent on account of the parting of the cable—especially at the present stage of water.

OFFICERS.—The Board of Directors of the Good Templar's Hall Association, elected on Monday evening, held a meeting yesterday at 1 o'clock P. M The members of the new Board were sworn in, and a permanent organization effected by the election of the following officers President, A. G. Walling, Vice President, L M Parrish, Secretary, O F Bell, Treasurer, W S Ladd, Building Committee, Chas Hodge, A Walling and Donald McKay.

OUT OF WATER.—When the steamer Vancouver collided with the Stark Street Ferry on Monday evening, the cable was severed in twain where the point of the bow struck the wire So great was the strain on the cable, that when it parted the elasticity caused the ends to separate so suddenly that about seventy five feet was thrown out on the bank on both sides of the river The peculiar whizzing vibrating sound accompanying, was heard some distance

DISAGREEABLE WEATHER.—A gentleman from the Dalles informs us that the weather at that place during the past month has been characteristically disagreeable There has been but little continuous cold weather but a succession of snow, hail, sleet, and just enough rain to make things thoroughly miserable and wretched But the average webfooter will always complain of the weather, let the clerk arrange it as pleasant as possibly

REPORTED DROWNED.—A report was in circulation on the streets yesterday morning that Samuel Nevills, a well known sporting character of Portland was drowned about a week ago in the Sacramento river. In company with several other persons, according to report he was crossing the Sacramento river in a skiff, when the boat capsized and young Nevills was drowned He left this city some months ago for California

NEW WHARF BOAT.—A new wharf boat has just been completed at the Dalles, under the superintendence of Mr John Holland The boat elongs to the O S N Co, and will be used to land boats against in place of the old boat The new boat is 140 feet long, 36 feet wide and 6½ feet hold The frame sides roof etc, have been taken from the old floating wharf and placed on the new

MACHINERY.—The Oregon Iron Works are engaged in turning out the engines and boiler for the new steamer now being built at the Dalles The engines are seven foot stroke and 20 inch bore and possess a working capacity of about 300 horse power The engines and boiler will be ready for service by the first of February

PROSTRATED.—The telegraphic line has been down above the Cascades for the last four days The winds and rain of the last week, or falling timber, have been the cause

FILLING IN.—A train has been employed for several weeks past in transporting stone from Oregon City to the Harrisburg bridge These stone have been used in filling up one of the cribs from which a portion of the rock was washed by the high waters We are informed that a few more loads of stone will be sufficient to complete the required repairs

WORK TO COMMENCE.—The work of laying the keel for the new steamer soon to be built by the O S N Co will not commence before a month The intention of Mr Holland, the builder was to begin work at once, but it being impossible to procure suitable lumber operations have been temporarily suspended The boat will be ready to launch early in the spring

AT ASTORIA.—The ship Victoria Nyanza and the schooner Olympia, are both lying at Astoria The Olympia is loading with iron for San Francisco and will soon complete her cargo The Nyanza has received the required quantity of grain on board and will proceed to sea soon

WASHED OUT.—We are informed that the late rains have done considerable damage along the line of the Oregon and California railroad. The main track has sustained little or no damage but many of the side tracks and switches have had the foundations swept away

EMMET GUARD MEETING.—A meeting will be held this evening by the Emmet Guard, at their Armory, the object being to elect a Secretary and Treasurer for the Company and to receive the annual reports of these officers

LAND SLIDE.—A land slide occurred on the Northern Pacific Railroad beyond Pumphrey's Landing, Monday Trains in consequence are not running beyond that point The obstruction will be removed in a few days

BRACED.—Some of the braces of the bridge on Front street just north of the Oregon Iron Works have been washed loose, and several men are employed in making the repairs necessary to render the structure safe

CABLE MENDED.—We learn that the wire cable which was parted on Monday evening, will be mended as soon as practicable, and trips will be resumed by the ferry when the necessary repairs are completed

MUNITIONS SHIPPED.—Adjutant General Dennison shipped yesterday for Southern Oregon 40 rifles and 3,700 cartridges, which are intended to be used in the subjugation of the warlike Modocs

U S DISTRICT COURT.—The U S District Court convened yesterday No business was transacted and the Court adjourned until next Tuesday.

AMUSEMENTS.

A pleasant social time was experienced at the festival given last evening at Nonpareil Hall by the Independent Champions of the Red Cross

The Independent Order of Jolly Good Fellows will give one of their social hops this evening—the anniversary of the battle of New Orleans—at Armory Hall A very pleasant time may be anticipated

"Fazio, or the Wife," was presented for the first time at the theater last evening. The audience greeting the performance, though rather small in numbers, was appreciative, and gave token of the same by applauding the star, Miss Kate Denin, who appeared to excellent advantage as Bianca, the wife Her acting in this character may be termed the best she has shown during her stay with us Mr Waldron, as well as the rest of the company, were fully conversant with the parts allotted to them. "Turn Him Out," a farce, closed the programme To-night "Lady of Lyons," with Miss Denin as Pauline. Manager Waldron has in preparation a charming comedy entitled "School," which will be produced as soon as everything calculated to make the play a success, is completed "School" will be the greatest attraction yet offered at Oro Fino, and we trust the liberal manager will be properly supported during its continuance, and the balance of the season

BUSINESS NOTICES

Every man can have a suit of clothes if he will only give Barman's "ad" his undivided attention The aforesaid Barman is bound to sell if he gets no profit, so the man whose cash is limited can step in at Barman's and get clothing at a slight expenditure

A Washington dispatch to the Tribune says

The thousands of petioners, representing almost every state, who have this session flooded Congress with a request that a prohibitory liquor law for the District of Columbia and the Territories be passed have been gratified by the favorable report of the Senate Finance Committee of what is known as the "Ohio Law," as a substitute for Mr Pomeroy's bill. The Senator from Kansas, to whom Mr Sherman formally turned over the matter will probably get it off of the calendar this session, but will have a difficult task to pass it

A Talk About Tonics.

The object of a tonic is to increase the elasticity and strength of the muscular fibre, and to invigorate the general system As a means of accomplishing these ends, it is expected to improve the appetite and digestive power of the stomach. These are certainly important considerations; but to cure dyspepsia, billious affections, chronic debility, intermittent fever, and other complaints involving derangements of the liver the bowels, the nerves, and the secretive organs generally something more than a mere tonic is required Hostetter's Stomach Bitters may be safely pronounced the best and most wholesome invigorant extant, but the other special medical properties which belong to this remarkable vegetable restorative have as much to do with the wonderful results it produces as its tonic virtues For example, it has certain alterative qualities which literally change the habit or constitution, re-establishing the healthy functions of the body without causing any undue evacuation by perspiration vomiting or purging Its entire effect is to put the whole machinery of life in perfect order to purify all the fluids, including the blood and bile, and not only to operate as an antidote to disease, where it exists, but so to strengthen, regulate and otherwise improve the condition of the system as to render it proof against vicissitudes of temperature, change of water, infected air, and other predisposing causes of liver and bowel disturbances and epidemic disorders Hence it is a medicine for all seasons and climes—useful alike to the traveler and the resident in an unhealthy region, and an invaluable safeguard against the physical disturbances which accrue from cold, damp, inclement weather, as well as against the mental depression which is apt to overwhelm the weak and nervous at this somewhat gloomy period of the year

PLANTATION BITTERS!

S. T.--1860--X.

This wonderful vegetable restorative is the sheet-anchor of the feeble and debilitated. As a tonic and cordial for the aged and languid it has no equal among stomachics As a remedy for the nervous weakness to which women are especially subject, it is superseding every other stimulant. In all climates tropical, temperate or frigid, it acts as a specific in every species of disorder which undermines the bodily strength and breaks down the animal spirits.

The New Day

Silent has been the night, and O, so long!
With weary moon forever sailing west,
Save that a bird at midnight trilled a song,
A dream of daylight from his moonlit nest.

The hills lay [illegible] in slumber range on range,
The earth was floating in a silver web—
That of starry [illegible] hung,
That lull of waters at the lowest ebb!

From drowsy note [illegible] the bird could sing,
Soft as the south [illegible] of summer dew,
The [illegible] within the quiet of his wing,
He sang [illegible] but now the dream comes true.

A thrill runs through the spaces of the night
And [illegible] in the wavy water [illegible]
[illegible] the stars dilate a distinct light
[illegible] luminous outflow of a day divine.

And now approach its deepening [illegible] —
[illegible]
And brightening till it [illegible] with [illegible]
O'er all the [illegible]

What though the perfect day [illegible]
Sweet was the [illegible]
Glad was the tidal [illegible]
And Heaven is [illegible] with [illegible] a single word.

The waves of light are breaking on the shore
Pulsing in [illegible] to a mightier flow
The strong uplift of nobler [illegible]
The great new future rising in the glow.

Above the hills surges the day at last,
The longed for day, effulgent [illegible]
Turn, turn, grave earth, and leave the darkened past
And swing thyself upon the incoming tide.

George Francis Train Pleads Guilty of Issuing an Obscene Paper

The following court scene is from the New York Commercial Advertiser of a recent date:

George Francis Train and John Wesley Nichols, photographer, of No. 735 Broadway, were arrested on bench warrants last evening, an indictment having been found against them by the grand jury on a charge of publishing an obscene paper entitled The Train League, the avowed purpose of which was the promulgation of free-love principles and the overthrow of the Bible. A load of the objectionable papers was seized while being driven to No. 49 Greene street in a cart; these were conveyed to the Fifteenth precinct station-house, where Nichols and Train were locked up.

At 11.30 o'clock this morning a side door opened in the Oyer and Terminer court, and a motley crowd entered and filed before the bar. The Stokes case was suspended and exclusive attention was paid to the new arrivals.

In the van strode George Francis Train, his overcoat thrown back, his head erect, and his features bearing a look of studied but scornful resignation.

At Train's left shoulder appeared the rubicund face of his counsel, William F. Howe. Capt. Byrne, "stuck" close to his prisoners, but not so close as to prevent a lady, wearing a little hat and short ringlets, from pressing on the heels of the distinguished prisoner. This lady is Miss Minnie Merton, a lecturer and apostle of progress. This lady bore aloft a flag, on which were displayed all the colors of the rainbow—the flag of the universal brotherhood.

Behind Miss Merton came J. W. Nichols, the photographer, who wore a look of undisguised alarm; then came numerous spectacled male and female sympathizers of Train.

Clerk. You are indicted for having for sale and giving away an obscene publication. Are you guilty or not guilty, and do you demand a trial?

Train. I am guilty. I am guilty of publishing obscene publications composed of Bible quotations.

Col. Fellows. If the prisoner desires to interpose a plea of guilty I desire he may be remanded for sentence.

Judge Boardman. Do you plead guilty or not?

Train. Yes, of publishing an obscene publication consisting of Bible quotations.

Judge. No qualifications will be taken to the plea.

Train. Nichols, who has been arrested with me, is simply a news agent, and I am alone responsible for the paper, if that is what you mean by guilty or not guilty.

Clerk. Did you hear the indictment?

Train. No; I desire that you would read it.

Mr. Sparks then read the indictment. It sets forth that the accused, on the 10th of December, 1872, "with force and arms," unlawfully, wilfully and maliciously, did have in their possession, with intent to sell, a certain obscene, indecent paper called The Train League, which paper is so obscene that it would be offensive to the court if spread out on the indictment, and that on said day said G. F. Train wilfully, &c., gave to one Anthony Comstock said indecent and obscene paper.

Train. I am guilty, but there is one incorrect statement there. I did not give away any paper.

Judge. Enter a plea of not guilty.

Clerk. Do you plead not guilty?

Train. No, sir; I am guilty of publishing the paper, but I did not give one to Comstock; that is a lie.

Mr. Howe asked the court to admit Nichols, who is a poor man, to bail.

Train. I am willing to go bail for him in any amount that may be taken.

Col. Fellows. I think $500 will be enough.

Judge Boardman. Very well.

Col. Fellows then asked that the prisoners be remanded, and the crowd filed out, en route for the Toombs.

Bridling the Tongue.

Those who are interested in the study of that particular department of social development which relates to the condition of woman, will read the following from the Louisville Courier-Journal, with that satisfaction which flows from the consciousness of progress and improvement:

To the museum department of the Public Library of Kentucky, there came yesterday an instrument of torture which reflects as much disgrace on mankind as the rack, the wheel, or any of those terrible machines which cruelty invented for its victims. It was a "brank" or scold's bridle, of the kind used years ago in England and Scotland for the punishment of females who were adjudged to have made too free use of the tongue. It was dug from the ground in our sister State of Tennessee, where, beneath the walls of an uninhabited building, it had lain time out of mind. It bears the rust of years, and no doubt came to this country with the earliest settlers. Possibly a lord of creation, who had a scolding wife in the Old World, brought with him to the New his vixtrix and instrument of controlling her.

It consists of an iron band to pass under the chin and over the top part of the head, with a sharp, chisel-shaped projection, extending two inches inwardly, to be inserted into the mouth. It was held in its place by another iron band extending round the back part of the head and fastened with a padlock. When the instrument was thus put on the scold her tongue had to recede to the back part of her mouth and there remain quiet or be cut to pieces by the sharp edge of the iron put there for the purpose. To scold or even talk in this fix was impossible, and the woman thus bridled had to keep silence.

When Blackstone wrote his Commentaries it was the law of England that a scolding woman was a nuisance, and she could be indicted and punished by what was known as the ducking-stool. This was a kind of chair to which the scold was fastened, and in which she was then plunged into the water so often as it was thought the offense deserved.

Dr. Platt, who wrote a history of Staffordshire, grew eloquent in his description of the brank, and in giving it preference over the ducking-stool. He said the ducking stool might give the woman cold and thus injure her health, and in addition thereto she could use her tongue during the intervals between one ducking and another. The brank was open to none of these objections, in the learned doctor's opinion, but was just the thing for the work to be done.

In shape the brank is not unlike the bridle or halter used for mules in this country. The striking difference is in the brank being entirely of iron, while the bridle of the mule is of leather, except the bit. The English or Scotch scold must have been a terrible animal to have required a bridle entirely of iron, when it is known here that we can handle mules with leather halters.

We should like to have seen the Englishman or Scotchman, or whatever he was, that brought this instrument to our country. If he was a married man, and this machine was used for his wife, he must have cut a queer figure with his Xantippe and her bridle on board the vessel that bore them to the New World. If he was an unmarried man, and brought over the brank with the expectation of its necessity among American women, it is to be hoped that he learned better before himself and instrument went beneath the ground.

But there the instrument, the terrible brank, is in the museum of the Public Library, where all may see it who wish. The strong minded women ought especially to go and see it, and thus arm themselves with a new argument against the trampled down rights of women. Surely the man who invented such an instrument ought to have been made to wear it the balance of his days, and it is strange to us of this age and country, how men could ever be demons enough to torture women in this way, even if those women had voluble tongues and said a thousand and [illegible] naughty things, none of which ought to have been said.

A Poet among the Shop Keepers

The Boston correspondent of the Sacramento Union tells the following story of Bret Harte's troubles with a Boston tailor:

The choicest bit of gossip lately enjoyed by our literary gourmands has been furnished by your own Bret Harte, who seems to be determined to make himself talked about at all hazards. The story is so good that his admirers in California ought to enjoy it. When Harte was in Boston in August, 1871—the time of his first visit, I believe—he found himself in the polished and well dressed society into which he was welcomed compelled to acknowledge, to himself, of course, that the California style of masculine costume was not in perfect harmony with the Boston style, and very properly desiring while at Rome to do as Romans do, he resolved to refurnish his outer man in the latest and nobbiest fashion. He made known his determination to Osgood, one of his publishers, and was straightway introduced by that obliging gentleman to the enterprising firm of Huff Brothers, who, delighted with the opportunity of serving so distinguished a customer, speedily replenished Harte's wardrobe with gorgeous apparel, and charged him therefor the sum of $180. In due time the gentlemanly tailors transmitted to Harte one of those little reminders which are so closely, if not agreeably associated with the tailor's profession. It was unheeded, and its many successors were doomed to a like ignominious fate. Harte neither paid the bill nor took the slightest notice of his creditors' frequent requests that he would do so, the Huffs naturally began to get huffy, and gradually their huffiness hardened into the determination to get their money by any lawful means that should be found available. When they read in the newspapers that Harte was to lecture here Friday night they recognized their opportunity. Informing themselves of the time of his arrival they procured a writ, and on Friday morning one of the partner's accompanied by a deputy-sheriff, repaired to the railway station. On the arrival of the New York train the tailor soon recognized his customer, but saw that his wife accompanied him, and being a man of gentlemanly instincts he did not wish to subject her to public mortification. So he told the officer to wait until Harte had placed his wife in a carriage and was about to follow her, when, advancing, the officer arrested the author of "The Heathen Chinee" in due form. Harte was not seriously discomposed, and Mrs. Harte took the matter very quietly. The poet desired to settle the case without much publicity, and proposed that creditor and officer should accompany him to the house of John Spencer Clarke, one of the firm of J. R. Osgood & Co., and whose guests Mr. and Mrs. Harte were to be. So the two couples entered the carriage, Harte facing the officer, and Mrs. Harte ~~vis-a-vis~~ vis-a-vis to Huff, and off they went to Clarke's. On arriving there the matter was explained to Clarke, and as in duty bound he wrote on the back of the bill "payment guaranteed." Thereupon Huff and his companion departed, meeting, as they left the house, another creditor on her way to "interview" Harte with reference to a similar delinquency. Several other claims against the poet was brought to the officer who acted in the case of Huff, but he, being a very modest man, declined to take hold of them, and they were put in the hands of some of his colleagues, with what result I cannot say. In the evening Harte delivered his lecture on "The Argonauts of '49," with undiminished self-possession. I cannot say that the lecture was a success. It was a piece of patch-work, mainly made up of stories, old and new, illustrative of life in the early days of California. Bret Harte is no orator as Brutus was, and his lecture did not tend to confirm the favorable impressions generally made by his books. Probably not one person in ten in Boston is aware of Harte's arrest. A Sunday paper of small circulation mentioned the occurrence, and a small daily briefly referred to it; but the leading journals have wholly ignored the case, because Harte has received the indorsement and fraternal countenance of the Boston literati. Common folks, who lack culture, openly denounce Harte; but their opinions, of course, are of no account.

The Washington Chronicle has the following in regard to the election of Mr. Patterson as Senator from South Carolina:

The Associated Press dispatches yesterday proved entirely adequate to the furnishing of a certificate of character to the Hon. J. J. Patterson, Senator-elect from South Carolina. Through the same source, the charge of corruption came so profusely just before and after the election. As the dispatches were paid for on both sides, the telegraph company makes a good thing out of the matter, while the good-natured public, being in the position of the visitor at the menagerie, are at liberty to take their choice. We beg to wash our hands of all responsibility in the premises. We would "rather be a dog and bay the moon" than be guilty of conniving at, and covering up the iniquities that are rendering the good name of States a stench in the nostrils of the people.

CALIFORNIA WILL NOT CONTRIBUTE VOLUNTEERS.—At an impromptu meeting of the citizens of Siskiyou, held in Yreka on the 26th ult., in reference to the existing war with the Modocs, Mr. P. A. Dorris was chosen as a delegate to proceed to Sacramento and represent to his Excellency, Gov. Booth, the necessity of ordering out one or two companies of volunteers to co-operate with the Regulars and Oregon Militia. The Sacramento Union, the Governor's organ, states that the interview ended in a refusal on the part of his Excellency to accede to the request made, and has referred the whole subject to Major General Schofield.—Jacksonville Sentinel.

Our Eastern exchanges generally predict that with the opening of the new year the desired relief of the monetary stringency would be to some extent realized. This prediction appears to have been founded on movements expected to take place in the great money centers of Europe, and especially the disbursements of the Franco-German indemnity funds of which a vast amount has accumulated in the treasury of the German Empire. The press also speaks with confidence of still further reductions in the Bank of England's rate of discount. All things considered, it is scarcely to be doubted that the general business of the country will be less cramped by the stringency during the present year than it was in 1872.

In the absence of telegraphic dispatches we note no important change in the condition of our local finances to-day. The first business week in the year, so far, has not been one of any unusual briskness. Though there is a fair amount of local trade, there are but few large transactions, and strenuous efforts are being made by our jobbers and wholesale merchants to obtain settlements that will enable them to stock up for the year's business with as little inconvenience as possible.

Ship Building.

Nothing was received with more distress by the well wishers of American commerce than the decline in our ship building interests during the years preceding 1872, and it is a gratifying fact that our affairs in this regard seem to be in a fair way of recovery. During the past year, according to an exchange, there has been a decided and gratifying revival in the State of Maine, resulting from the improvement in freights throughout the world, and to the encouragement extended by Congress at the last session. Returns from eight districts in that State show the number of vessels launched during the year to have been 145, with an aggregate of 41,066 tons. This does not, of course, include the large number of vessels on the stocks in different stages of completion. The number and [illegible] besides many barks and large schooners. [illegible] 6,000 tons for the four districts [illegible] and the total tonnage built in the State during the year will be 17,000 tons. In 1870 the amount of tonnage constructed was 40,[illegible] tons, and in 1871 [illegible]. The present year it is expected the business will equal the most prosperous years before the war. The revival in ship building is not confined to the State of Maine, great activity prevailing in [illegible] Massachusetts, where very little work has been done for years. The revival in [illegible] building on the Delaware [illegible]

The Wool Trade.

The Wool [illegible] of the United States for the year 1872 was [illegible] and the long [illegible] the same time [illegible] the [illegible] for the present year at only 120,000 [illegible] to the [illegible] in the Boston Wool [illegible] and Woolen [illegible] have been at 60,000,000 which is [illegible] notwithstanding these figures show an unusually heavy deficit and correct [illegible] in the future. The latest New York advices report a slight revival in trade, and free purchases by a few manufacturers, who [illegible] advance in prices [illegible] the holders. The Boston Shipping List of the 21st ult. says:

"The market is steady and firm, with a fair demand from manufacturers, and after the 1st of January we look for more movement. Supplies of Domestic Wool are now coming forward quite freely from the West, and our [illegible] some very choice clips from Ohio and Pennsylvania. There is, however, very little pressure to buy or sell, as holders have confidence in the future of the market. We quote Western and Michigan fleeces at [illegible] 67c, and Ohio and Pennsylvania [illegible] 72½. Foreign Wool is held firm, but no sales of any magnitude for some days."

Markets for our Wheat.

The San Francisco Bulletin calculates that Great Britain will next year require, in addition to the produce of her own soil, not less than a total equivalent to Flour and Wheat of 10,000,000 centals, and thinks California might supply at least one half of this enormous quantity next year. The same paper says—and its remarks apply to Oregon, only to a more limited extent, owing to the much less amount of our surplus:

That is to say, if we next year have a surplus of fifty million centals in flour and wheat to export, we could send it all to England, and at the rates now prevailing, for shipping wheat it would bring us in close on one hundred million dollars. But we would require at least five million more centals for our own consumption, and we could, if we chose, export two million centals in flour and wheat to other lands. There is little doubt that with ordinary enterprise we shall be able to obtain other markets sufficient to afford two million centals. These are for instance China, Japan and India, as yet almost untried for without a trial of the right sort. High freights and shipping inferior flour to China and Japan, have almost destroyed the flourishing trade that we formerly had with these countries in this article. Then India is also, other untried, and it contains a large and daily increasing European population, and a native one, large numbers of whom are fast learning European ways and manners. The islands of the Indo-Chinese archipelago contain a population now of twenty millions, with whom we have an extensive commerce in rice, sugar and coffee. Their white population is also rapidly increasing, and there is no reason why they should not be supplied from this coast with the staff of life. Tropical Australia, unfit for wheat, is being fast settled with a wool, cotton and sugar growing population, who would not be able to draw their supplies from the southern colonies, because the latter do not contain more arable land than will be sufficient to maintain her present population. Hence tropical Australia must look for flour and wheat across the Pacific. Then there is Mexico, at least comparatively restored to peace, and Central America, with which we will have a large trade, and the numerous and fertile islands that gem the broad Pacific. It is therefore not at all extravagant to assume that we shall, if we choose, be able, before many years are at an end, to raise a crop of seventy million centals of wheat, worth at least one hundred and thirty million dollars. Beside this, the gold and silver product of the whole coast, estimated as worth sixty-five million dollars annually will sink into insignificance. Wheat will be for many a year the principal staple of the coast, and one before which even gold must yield pre-eminence.

Miscellaneous.

We have information regarding the new line of steamships about to be established between London and Valparaiso, Chili. It will be called the Cosmos line, and the steamers will touch at all points called at by the steamers of other companies. The pioneer vessel of the line was to sail from London December 14. This is the third line of steamers between Europe and the west coast of Chili, via the Straits of Magellan, that has been started within the past six months.

Next summer the French line will make weekly trips between New York and Havre instead of fortnightly as at present.

Last month the oldest steamer in the world was presented by her owners, Messrs Steele & McCaskill, to the Glasgow Chamber of Commerce. The vessel is named the Industry, is fifty four tons register, and was launched from the building yard by Messrs John & William Fyfe of Fairlie, on the Clyde, in May, 1814. She was the seventh steamer built on that river. Latterly she has lain sunk in the East Indian harbor at Greenock, Scotland, but recently was floated and beached to be caulked, thereafter to proceed to Glasgow, where she will be preserved as a memento of the early days of steam navigation.

For the eleven months, ending November 30, 1872, the imports at the port of New York were valued at $405,003,000, against $359,404,000 for 1871, and $292,400,000 for 1870. In the same months for 1872 the exports were valued at $253,383,000, showing an excess of imports of, in money value, $220,615,000. This certainly a large balance of trade against this country, but the shipment of bonds and other securities have probably offset this to a large amount.

The Central Pacific Railroad Company, it is said, intend to compete for the San Joaquin river trade, by, if possible, reducing their tariffs below a living rate, and thereby freezing out competition.

The British ship Decarca, Captain Anderson, from Hongkong, to San Francisco, has been totally wrecked on one of the Loochoo Islands. The latter part of the dispatch received reads as follows: "Crew—except—drowned."

It is estimated by the best informed revenue officers on this coast and at Washington that not less than 1,400,000 gallons of spirits will have been produced on this coast in the year now closing, which should yield a revenue of over $800,000. But, in fact, up to the close of November (returns for December not yet known) the rate of collection—say $527,000 for the eleven months—will only sum up about $640,000 for the year, or full $160,000 less than it should be.

Messrs. Ismay & Imrie, owners of the White Star line, have just established a line of steamships between Liverpool and Valparaiso, the Republic which made several voyages to New York, having arrived at the latter port on the 9th ult., as the pioneer vessel.

England, on an average of our past crops, wants every year four times as much wheat as we grow on this coast; fifteen times as much barley, fifty times as much oats, and butter, cheese and eggs, almost without limit. She needs nine million pounds of hops for her beer, ale and porter; fifteen million pounds of tallow and stearine for her soap and candle factories, and over three hundred million pounds of wool, ten times over the whole annual production for the looms of Yorkshire.

Home Produce Market.

WHEAT—There is no change in the market to-day. Prices herein last quoted are firmly maintained and buyers are apparently free buyers. A number of vessels, four at least, will soon be here ready to load, and will require at least 200,000 bushels to make up their cargoes. There is a large quantity of this already engaged. For round lots the market is quotable at $1 70@1 75 ₩ cental.

FLOUR—The market rules steady at the figures last given, with a moderate receipt and some decline in the demand.

OATS—The demand has fallen off somewhat, and trade is dull. We quote at 60 cents per bushel.

BARLEY—Quotable nominally at $1 40@1 45. But little doing.

HAY—The demand is not large to-day, and prices are weaker, though good timothy still commands $20 per ton. Wild is very dull at $10@12.

BUTTER—Unchanged and dull for all kinds except choice fresh dairy.

EGGS—Prices are down to 25 cents per dozen, and but few buyers.

Other products without change.

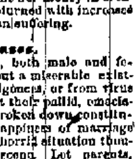
DR. G. G. GLASS.

TO THE UNFORTUNATE.

NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,



623 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854 for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

DR. GIBBON has the pleasure of announcing that he has returned from visiting the principal Hospitals of Europe, and has resumed practice at his Dispensary, 623 Kearny street, corner of Commercial, San Francisco, where his old patients and those requiring his services may find him.

The Doctor has spared neither time nor money in seeking out new remedies, and has returned with increased facilities for the alleviation of human suffering.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible, life destroying maladies—see that they are cured for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to DR. GIBBON, a physician who has made private diseases his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate case, without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practiced by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

MARRIED MEN.

Or those who contemplate marriage, who are suffering under any of these fearful maladies, should not forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them, nor delay to obtain immediate relief.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

CURED AT HOME.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Dr. Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions. By inclosing Ten Dollars coin, in registered letter through the Postoffice or through Wells, Fargo & Co., a package of medicine will be forwarded to any part of the Union.

All communications strictly confidential.

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders who, with bogus sworn-to certificates, dupe the unwary. Some of the self-styled doctors, whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco and other places, are tradesmen and became too lazy to work at their trades. Some are tinsmiths, shoemakers, newspaper carriers, intelligence office keepers, etc. The only way to avoid imposition is to make inquiry—it will cost you nothing and may save you many regrets; for, as advertising physicians in eight cases out of ten are bogus, there is no safety in trifling any of them until you know who and what they are. Dr. Gibbon does not deceive people by exhibiting bogus titles, certificates, pretended patients' letters, etc. Dr. Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his offices of his ability to treat diseases that he proposes to cure.

Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, 623 Kearney street, corner Commercial, San Francisco, Post Office Box 1,957.

REMEMBER TO PUT BOX 1,957 ON THE LETTER.

Consultations FREE.

☞ Correspondents will please inform DR. GIBBON that they read his advertisement in the Daily Oregonian.

Sole Agent for Oregon.

To Whom It may Concern.

WHEREAS UNDER THE LAW, AS DECIDED BY the Circuit Court of the United States in the case of D. H. Mizner vs. Geo. W. Vaughn, the title to a considerable number of lots in the east half of the donation land claim of D. H. Lownsdale, in this city, might be disturbed, therefore notice is hereby given that all persons holding lots within the limits of said east half, by or under conveyances executed by said D. H. Lownsdale, after the 27th of September, 1850, and all holding by or under conveyances executed by him in person before that day, with covenants for title subsequently acquired, can have confirmatory deeds from the heirs of said D. H. Lownsdale, without charge, upon application therefor, the applicants paying the expense of searching the records and making deeds.

ADVERTISING

Has created many a new business,
Has enlarged many an old business,
Has revived many a dull business,
Has rescued many a lost business,
Has saved many a failing business,
Has preserved many a large business,
And insures success in any business.

GIRARD'S SECRET.—Stephen Girard used to say in his old age: "I have always considered advertising liberally and long to be the great medium of success in business, and the prelude to wealth. And I have made it an invariable rule to advertise in dull times as well as the busiest, long experience having taught me that money thus spent is well laid out, as by continually keeping my business before the public it has secured many sales that I otherwise would have lost."

ADVERTISE YOUR BUSINESS.

KEEP YOUR NAME BEFORE THE PUBLIC.

JUDICIOUS ADVERTISING INSURES A FORTUNE.

IF BUSINESS IS DULL, ADVERTISE.

IF BUSINESS IS BRISK, ADVERTISE.
